Toronto Free-Net

Our Mission:

We believe that everyone should have access to information, in a non-commercial way.

This means that we believe in supporting those useful things that other providers have found to be unprofitable, such as space to publish your own web pages and a free email address you can keep for life. All free of advertising!

We even provide free basic dialup access.

Why support Toronto Free-Net?

- It is non-profit. All revenues go to member services.
- Great value for Internet access.
- It is a barrier to monopoly formation, ensuring that prices stay low for all citizens.
- You get a say in the organization's direction. As a voting member, you will be part of a self-help community, not merely a customer.
- It provides an Internet lifeline for people who have financial difficulties or other barriers.
- It provides career-building experiences for people seeking work.
- You too can volunteer to learn new skills (or to practice old ones), while helping the community.

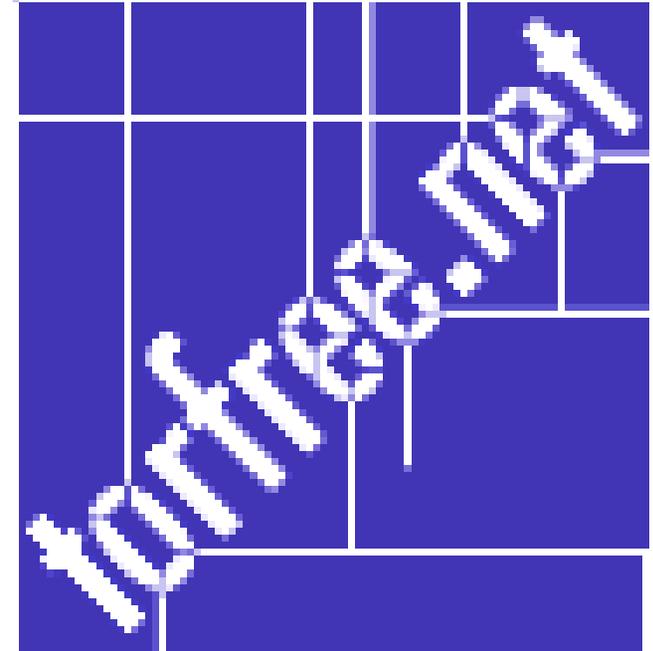

Toronto Free-Net

Toronto's oldest Internet provider since 1994

Toronto Free-Net

Toronto Free-Net is a full-service Internet Provider. It is a non-profit corporation with nearly 50,000 members. It is volunteer-run.

Most services are offered at cost. The rest, including Basic dialup, are free of charge. Membership itself is for life, free of charge. You get an email address @torfree.net, space in which to publish your own web pages, voting rights at general meetings, as well as all the services commonly offered by commercial providers, such as dialup, DSL (HiSpeed & Lite), static IP numbers, dry loop, etc.

Technical support comes from local volunteers, without the call centre scripts that so often fail to answer your questions. This goes beyond assistance: we teach people how to get the most out of the Internet.

We support all operating systems, not just Windows! It's your computer, it's your choice.

We support older equipment and text-only web-browsing for those with special needs.

We help each other to reduce barriers to access.

Together, we are the ISP!
